Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from History and Prospectus: Tennessee School for the Blind The reader of the succeeding pages can not fail to be impressed by one remarkable and gratifying fact, viz., that charity, like science and mechanics, has experienced a remarkable advance in the last quarter of a century; and, also, that no class, among the many dependent or defective classes, has made such rapid strides to independence of charitable assistance as the blind people of the United States. There was a time when the blind were regarded and treated as mendicants; when, in Europe they begged at the church-doors, while in the United States they went from house to house seeking alms. The evolution from mendicancy to self-support was not made at a single bound, but by slow stages. At any rate, the asylum was made an abode for the blind after the blind ceased to be mendicants and long before they had solved the problem of self-help. There is no nobler charity than that which leads a dependent class to independence of want by qualifying them for positions in which they can earn an adequate and honorable support. By this process they become free men and free women. Having, then, clearly shown their ability to support themselves, the blind have the same right to education that their more fortunate fellows With sight enjoy. The schools, therefore, for the blind should not be overlooked; for they not only give an education to their inmates, but they open a sure and safe way to self-supporting employment.
